Best Practices

- FAHSS takes pride in their student-centred approach that allows learners the flexibility and support to create their own educational experience whether that be through combining programs and certificates or minors across different areas, taking a double-major degree program, or through immersion in some of our unique interdisciplinary experiences⁵.
 - The FAHSS PASS, Fresh Start, and Flourish programs help students develop skills for academic success. The Flourish program, established in 2022, is intended to assist with upper year student retention.
 - The FAHSS Transform program, established in 2021, helps students transition from high school to university. This program is intended to positively impact onboarding, cohort building, preparedness and retention.
 - The FAHSS App allows students easy access to learning communities, peer and mental health supports, important academic and non-academic information, and quick answers to their questions - all at their fingertips through their phone.
- FAHSS offers important opportunities for students to learn outside of the classroom and to develop life and employment skills including competencies in research and leadership to allow you to help solve the big picture problems.
 - Undergraduate and graduate research opportunities – in the community and abroad - are readily available in FAHSS, alongside peer mentorship and leadership training, engagement, and application. This training is also recognized through FAHSS's LEAD Scholar medallion program upon graduation.
